

Update 71: Australia - Plans to Start Quarantine-Free Travel with New Zealand from April 19, 2021 as COVID-19 Cases Decline

- Australia and New Zealand to start quarantine-free travel from April 19, 2021 as two countries see decline in rate of COVID-19 cases
- The start of quarantine-free travel between the neighboring nations comes as a relief to families who have been separated by the COVID-19 pandemic as well as to struggling tourist operators and boosts economic recovery
- However, travel between Australia and New Zealand could be disrupted if future outbreaks of COVID-19 infections are detected
- Also, the flights would be suspended from any Australian state or territory if authorities there ordered a local lockdown
- New Zealanders have been allowed into most parts of Australia since October 2020, however travel the other way was banned
- Earlier, on January 28, 2021, Australia extended the suspension of quarantine free travel for New Zealanders until January 31, 2021 amid confirmation of new COVID-19 variant cases in New Zealand
- The temporary ban was first imposed on January 25, 2021
- As of now, Australia reported 29,382 confirmed COVID-19 cases with 909 deaths, ~3.1% of total reported cases, and 26,326 recoveries, ~89.8% of total reported cases
- On the other hand, when compared to overall population of the country, confirmed COVID-19 cases and fatality rate stands at ~0.09% and ~0.003%, respectively
- In total, 8,54,983 vaccine doses have been given
- Supply Wisdom is continuously monitoring the situation and will alert you to any relevant developments
- Please consult Australian Government Department of Health (<https://www.health.gov.au/>) for latest information on COVID-19 in Australia
